

Composed in 2004 chants, airs and dances interleaves three distinct types of music; the first consisting of long, timeless values, the second of flowing, rhythmically fluctuating, lyrical lines, the third of fast, angular, jagged figures. Over time, a process of elaboration and decoration of the material causes the differences amongst the ideas to dissolve and the lines to fuse.